Very truly yours.

AN "ABSORBING QUESTION."

The topic of the hour, especially at the East and West, is the Civil Rights decision of pensions covering the period prior to the of the Supreme Court. The Chicago Tribune curred the protracted deadlock in the House which has become historical. Mr. Randall was the leader of the opposition. The bill were Butler, Harrison and Thornburg, of were often printed in black letters under the caption: "The Republican enemies of civil rights." In the Senate the bill was passedtive vote was wholly Republican, and among the negative votes were these Republicans: Carpenter, of Wisconsin; Ferry, of Connecticut; Hamilton, of Texas, Lewis f Virginia, Schurz, Sprague and Tipton. Mr. Carpenter made an argument in the Senate against the constitutionality of the aw; declared that all of its provisions were n conflict with the Constitution, and prelicted that the Supreme Court would hold it invalid and void. Edmunds, on the other hand, was the advocate of the constitutionality of the bill. He insisted that the purpose of the bill was to protect the people against discriminations founded exclusively upon color. In the eight years since the bill assed it has failed to justify the expectation of its friends or the predictions of its enemies. The first judicial opinion under the law was delivered by Judge Emmons, of Tennessee, who, in a charge to the grand jury in reference to the Civil Rights bill, declared it to be unconstitutional; maintained that the United States could not interfere with hotel proprietors or common carriers, and asserted the right of the States to take

Prof. Langston's claim that he drafted the original bill has been strenuously denied. It is stated, by a Baltimore Sun correspondent that the Langston-Sumner bill was laughed out of court. care of their own private affairs.

This substitute, although very much modified from the original bill, undertook to inlude cemeteries in its application. The bill even as modified was fiercely attacked, and Mr. Frelinghuysen again and again strove vainly to deny that it touched the question of social equality. After many days of de-bate the bill was passed and sent to the was then Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the body, moved that it be referred to his committee, and stated quite posi-
